

Unified human communications

CLOUD
REVOLUTION

Cloud focused, human centered.

Solving your unified communications problems with complex and option-rich Microsoft platforms is a challenge in and of itself.

Well, it sounds simple enough; leverage an integrated suite of applications and services to meet the communications needs by connecting communications channels in one easy-to-use and secure ecosystem.

Simple in principle, perhaps, not so much in reality.

The good news is that at Cloud Revolution, we've built our focused communication and collaboration practices based on deep experience in the Microsoft 365 and Teams universe. As a result, we know the ins and outs, upsides, downsides, implementation dependencies, and how to tap each element's potential in the Microsoft ecosystem.

This complex challenge deserves a seamless and focused approach. Hey, that's us.

We take a MS Teams-centric approach to life as we know it. This laser-like focus provides you with unique benefits.

The last thing you should do is confuse Cloud Revolution with the plethora of well-intended MSPs that claim some related experience with comprehensive Microsoft 365 & Teams implementations. While we offer a broad spectrum of services and solutions, they are all closely aligned to delivering on a Microsoft Teams potential; from Teams Voice to Teams Contact Center or Teams Room and beyond. Our focus equates to your solution design and implementation efficiency.

We wanted to provide the market with a holistic service offering centered on the Microsoft 365 and Teams ecosystems.

For years, we've had the good fortune to work within the broad Microsoft ecosystem. Microsoft demonstrated a growing commitment to a productivity cloud designed to help users achieve what matters with best-in-class Office apps, intelligent cloud services, and advanced collaboration capabilities. Unfortunately, we also witnessed the growing complexity of architecting and implementing these solutions successfully. A complexity that often throttled an organization's ability to leverage all these platforms had to offer. This is precisely the barrier Cloud Revolution removes for our clients every day.

Our experience and implementation frameworks ensure proactive solution design along with flawless training and deployment.

Our experience tells us that when you have genuinely implemented a technology solution to its potential, the return on the effort is exponential.

We also understand the power of a technology continuum, a predictable methodology that spans from designing and architecting a solution through its implementation, training, adoption, and ongoing optimization. Cloud Revolution's proven frameworks address each step of that journey, reducing project friction and accelerating time to value.
